

Adjunct Instructor of Forensic Science
The Sage Colleges

The Sage Colleges Department of Chemistry & Biochemistry is seeking an adjunct instructor in forensic science for the Fall 2017 semester.

Qualifications: significant experience in forensics, with expertise in the areas of trace evidence, firearms identification, latent prints, photography, or questioned documents preferred (areas other than chemistry and biology). Master's degree preferred but not required. This would be an excellent opportunity for a retired person.

The successful candidate will teach a portion of a 4-credit lecture and laboratory course called Forensic Applications of the Sciences to juniors and seniors in the undergraduate forensic science major program at Sage.

Depending upon availability, the adjunct instructor will work up to 4 hours per week in the period October 11, 2017 through December 15, 2017 and receive up to $3150.

The Sage Colleges include: Russell Sage College for women in Troy, NY, the coeducational Sage College of Albany, and the Sage Graduate Schools – of Education, Health Sciences & Management – operating on both campuses.

Send letter of application, resume, and list of three professional references to Dr. Frank Vozzo at vozzof@sage.edu

Applications accepted until September 11, 2017.
